Twenty-ninth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Lectionary: 147

Reading 1

Exodus 17:8-13

In those days, Amalek came and waged war against Israel. Moses, therefore, said to Joshua, "Pick out certain men, and tomorrow go out and engage Amalek in battle. I will be standing on top of the hill with the staff of God in my hand." So Joshua did as Moses told him: he engaged Amalek in battle after Moses had climbed to the top of the hill with Aaron and Hur.

As long as Moses kept his hands raised up, Israel had the better of the fight, but when he let his hands rest, Amalek had the better of the fight. Moses' hands, however, grew tired; so they put a rock in place for him to sit on. Meanwhile Aaron and Hur supported his hands, one on one side and one on the other, so that his hands remained steady till sunset. And Joshua mowed down Amalek and his people with the edge of the sword.

Reading 2

2 Timothy 3:14-4:2

Beloved:

Remain faithful to what you have learned and believed, because you know from whom you learned it, and that from infancy you have known the sacred Scriptures, which are capable of giving you wisdom for salvation through faith in Christ Jesus. All Scripture is inspired by God and is useful for teaching, for refutation, for correction, and for training in righteousness, so that one who belongs to God may be competent, equipped for every good work.

I charge you in the presence of God and of Christ Jesus, who will judge the living and the dead, and by his appearing and his kingly power: proclaim the word; be persistent whether it is convenient or inconvenient; convince, reprimand, encourage through all patience and teaching.

We need volunteers for all of our events

Love cannot remain by itself - it has no meaning. Love has to be put into action and that action is service. Mother Theresa

Call the parish office to register to volunteer.

Gospel

Luke 18:1-8

Jesus told his disciples a parable about the necessity for them to pray always without becoming weary.

He said, "There was a judge in a certain town who neither feared God nor respected any human being. And a widow in that town used to come to him and say, 'Render a just decision for me against my adversary.' For a long time the judge was unwilling, but eventually he thought, 'While it is true that I neither fear God nor respect any human being, because this widow keeps bothering me I shall deliver a just decision for her lest she finally come and strike me.'" The Lord said, "Pay attention to what the dishonest judge says. Will not God then secure the rights of his chosen ones who call out to him day and night? Will he be slow to answer them? I tell you, he will see to it that justice is done for them speedily. But when the Son of Man comes, will he find faith on earth?"

What is the Bible? Why is it so important?
(Biblical Weekly with Fr. Valentine Umoh, Vol.1 no.1)

Welcome to this first edition of Biblical Weekly. I am Fr. Valentine Umoh and I am excited to begin this Biblical Weekly series. It intends to be a weekly publication at our parish bulletin. It will introduce us to the Bible as a literary text and as the written word of God. Its goal is to gradually immerge us into a better appreciation of the Sacred Scripture. It pretends to be a guide to an Introduction to Fundamental Scripture.

The first question that comes to mind here is what exactly is the Bible. And why is it so important. Simply put, the Bible is a collection of books that contain the word of God expressed in human language. The English word “Bible” is derived from the Greek τὰ βιβλία (ta biblia) which means “the books” (singular βιβλίον, biblion). The Greek word βιβλίον itself literally means “scroll” and came to be used as the ordinary word for book. Daniel 9:2 spoke of the Prophetic writings as the Books. 1Maccabees 12:9 referred to the Old Testament as the Holy Books. Jesus alluded to the Old Testament as the scriptures in Matt 21:42. In Rom 1:2, Paul spoke of the Old Testament Books as the Holy Scriptures.

Hellenistic Jews used the Greek ta biblia to describe their sacred books. The Latin biblia sacra (“holy books”) is a translation of the Greek τὰ βιβλία τὰ ἅγια (tà biblía tà hágia), which also means “the holy books”. Medieval Latin biblia is short for biblia sacra “holy book”. Actually, neither Jesus nor the early Christians called their scriptures as the Bible. The Jews often use words signifying “the scrolls”, while the Christians use words that signify “the codices.” John Chrysostom is credited as the first writer (in his Homilies on Matthew, delivered between 386 and 388 CE) to use the Greek phrase ta biblia to describe both the Old and New Testaments together. Overtime τὰ βιβλία (ta biblia) came to be used as a singular noun and to stand for the collection which Christians regard as the word of God – the Bible.

Although it is bound under one cover and bears a single title, the Bible is not a single, unified book. It is, in fact, a collection of some seventy-three different works by different authors, using very different styles and perspectives, composed over a span of several centuries, and in three different languages (Hebrew, Aramaic, Greek). Most of the Old Testament (forty-six books) was written in Hebrew, but parts of the books of Daniel (2:4–7:28), Ezra (4:6–6:18; 7:12–26), and one verse from Jeremiah (10:11) were originally composed in Aramaic, a Middle Eastern language related to but different from Hebrew. The book of Wisdom is written in Greek but some scholars believe it was originally composed in Hebrew. All twenty-seven of the New Testament books were composed in Greek.

The rich diversity of the Bible is one of its glories because it allows the story of God’s people to be told from various perspectives. It also presents a challenge to the reader who should be aware of the different cultural, historical, and literary contexts of each biblical book. But there is a deeper unity to the Bible that binds together these individual pieces of literature. Through the many biblical books flows the continuing saga of God’s love for Israel and for the Church. Each of the biblical authors, no matter how much separated in time, culture, and literary style, shares a conviction that God’s presence is felt in human history and that God invites the human family to respond with faith and integrity.

As its diverse makeup implies, the Bible was not written at a single point in history. The events covered in the Old Testament span nearly two thousand years of history, from the time of Abraham and the patriarchs (around 1800 BC) to the period of the Maccabean wars (140 BC). If one includes the epic accounts of the creation and pre-patriarchal stories such as Noah and the flood, then the reach of the biblical saga goes back to the beginning of time. But the actual formulation of the biblical accounts, although making use of earlier stories and traditions, is confined to a narrower period of time, probably beginning with the monarchy (around 1000 BC) and concluding in the century before the birth of Christ.

The New Testament books were all written during the latter half of the first century AD, although some recent scholars assert that the Gospel of John and the Acts of the Apostles may have been composed in the early part of the second century AD. The letters of Paul were probably the earliest New Testament works to be put in writing, dating mainly from the decade of the fifties of the first century AD. The sayings of Jesus and the many stories about his ministry circulated in the Christian community all during these early decades of the Church but were probably not put in writing until shortly after AD 70, with Mark the first Gospel to be written. Matthew, Luke (and his second volume, the Acts of the Apostles), and John follow, with the compositions of their Gospels taking place sometime during the last quarter of the first century AD. The other non-Pauline letters and writings, including the book of Revelation or the Apocalypse, also date from this period.

REFLEXION SOBRE EL EVANGELIO DE HOY

EN ESTE vigésimo noveno domingo del Tiempo Ordinario, la Palabra de Dios nos invita a reflexionar sobre dos dimensiones esenciales de nuestra vida cristiana: la oración persistente y la perseverancia de la fe. Las lecturas de hoy nos hablan de un campo de batalla donde las manos levantadas traen victoria, de una viuda que nunca deja de suplicar justicia y de un llamado a aferrarnos a las Escrituras que nos han formado desde la infancia. Abramos nuestros corazones al fuego que estos textos encienden en nosotros.

En la primera lectura escuchamos a los israelitas enfrentarse a los amalecitas. Cada vez que Moisés levantaba sus manos, Israel prevalecía; cuando las bajaba, el enemigo ganaba ventaja. Al ver su cansancio, Aarón y Hur sostenían sus brazos hasta el anochecer, y Josué logró la victoria. Esta imagen no es solo un episodio histórico; es un cuadro vívido de la oración como fuente de ayuda divina.

El salmista recuerda que nuestra ayuda proviene del Señor, que nunca duerme ni se queda dormido. Él es nuestro sombreado, nuestro protector, que guarda nuestro salir y entrar por siempre.

San Pablo, escribiendo a Timoteo, nos exhorta a aferrarnos a las Escrituras sagradas que nos han instruido desde la infancia, pues la Escritura es “inspirada por Dios y útil para la enseñanza, la corrección, la disciplina y la formación en la justicia”. Nos anima a proclamar el mensaje con paciencia, ya sea que el tiempo sea favorable o no.

Finalmente, Jesús narra la parábola de la viuda persistente que sigue regresando a un juez injusto hasta que le concede justicia. Usa esta historia para asegurar que Dios responderá las súplicas de sus elegidos que oran día y noche.

En conjunto, estos pasajes trazan una línea clara: nuestra victoria pertenece a Dios, y cooperamos con Él mediante una oración constante y una fe inquebrantable.

Consideremos la historia de un misionero moderno que, al igual que Moisés, sintió que sus “manos” espirituales se cansaban después de años de servicio. Confió a un hermano, quien le recordó la escena bíblica donde Aarón y Hur apoyaron a Moisés. Inspirado, el misionero comenzó una práctica diaria de rezar los Salmos junto con su comunidad, cada persona tomando turnos de “levantar sus manos” en intercesión. En pocos meses, la misión vio una renovación de esperanza, familias regresando a la Iglesia y un profundo crecimiento del amor comunitario.

El Papa Francisco nos recuerda que “el fuego del Espíritu Santo se enciende en los corazones, manos y pies de todos los que lo siguen” y que estamos llamados a “comunicar con todos, sin excepción”. La experiencia del misionero refleja este fuego: la oración enciende el espíritu, permitiéndonos servir con renovada fuerza.

¿Qué significa esto para nosotros hoy?

- Levantar nuestras manos en oración: Como Moisés, podemos sentirnos fatigados, pero no estamos solos. La comunidad—nuestras familias, la parroquia y la comunión de los santos—nos apoya (Aarón y Hur).
 - Persistir como la viuda: En nuestras luchas personales—ya sea salud, trabajo o relaciones—mantengamos la oración constante, confiando que Dios nos escucha aun cuando las respuestas parecen tardar.
- Fundarnos en la Escritura: Que la Palabra sea el “bastón de Dios” que sostenemos, guiándonos a través de las batallas de la vida.
