READING I
Genesis 12:1 4a

The LORD said to Abram:
“Go forth from the land of your kinsfolk and from your father’s house to a land that I will show you.
“I will make of you a great nation,
and I will bless you;
I will make your name great,
so that you will be a blessing.
I will bless those who bless you and curse those who curse you.
All the communities of the earth shall find blessing in you.”
Abram went as the LORD directed him.

READING II
2 Timothy 1:8b-10

Beloved:
Bear your share of hardship for the gospel
with the strength that comes from God.
He saved us and called us to a holy life,
not according to our works
but according to his own design and the grace bestowed on us in Christ Jesus
before time began,
but now made manifest
through the appearance of our savior Christ Jesus, who destroyed death and brought life and immortality to light through the gospel.

GOSPEL
MATTHEW 5:17-37

Matthew 17:1-9
Jesus took Peter, James, and John his brother, and led them up a high mountain by themselves.
And he was transfigured before them;
his face shone like the sun
and his clothes became white as light.
And behold, Moses and Elijah appeared to them,
conversing with him.
Then Peter said to Jesus in reply,
“Lord, it is good that we are here.
If you wish, I will make three tents here,
one for you, one for Moses, and one for Elijah.”
While he was still speaking, behold,
a bright cloud cast a shadow over them,
then from the cloud came a voice that said,
“This is my beloved Son, with whom I am well pleased; listen to him.”
When the disciples heard this, they fell prostrate
and were very much afraid.
But Jesus came and touched them, saying,
“Rise, and do not be afraid.”
And when the disciples raised their eyes,
they saw no one else but Jesus alone.
As they were coming down from the mountain,
Jesus charged them,
“Do not tell the vision to anyone until the Son of Man has been raised from the dead.”

Msgr. Tom's Musings: THE "FIGHTING IRISH" BRAWL

On February 11, the Bishop of Fort Wayne-South Bend, Indiana, the diocese where the University of Notre Dame is located, vigorously denounced the institution's recent appointment of an outspoken pro-abortion professor to an academic unit there and called on the Catholic school "to rectify the situation. Several more U.S. bishops have now joined in the "fight."

When Notre Dame announced in January, that it had appointed Associate Professor Susan Ostermann as director of an Institute for Asia and Asian Studies, many Catholic students and pro-life groups strongly objected because of her pro-abortion position. Shortly afterwards, the local bishop joined in the fray.

In his statement following the outcry, Bishop Kevin Rhoades said a number of op-ed articles that Ostermann co-authored with another abortion activist (former ND Professor Tamara Kay), caused him to express his dismay and his strong opposition to this appointment "that is causing scandal to the faithful of our diocese and beyond. "Her extensive public advocacy of abortion rights and her disparaging and inflammatory remarks about those who uphold the dignity of human life from the moment of conception to natural death go against a core principle of justice that is central to Notre Dame's Catholic identity and mission."

The bishop argued that she used "outrageous rhetoric" in almost 12 co-authored op-eds, noting her claims that the pro-life position is rooted in white supremacy and racism and that misogyny is "embedded" in the movement. He said she has also "attacked pregnancy resource centers as deceptive 'anti-abortion propaganda sites' that harm women" and claimed that abortion "enhances freedom and flourishing for women," and thus is supported by Catholic teaching. "These are all outrageous claims that should disqualify her from an administrative and leadership role at any Catholic university." He recalled how the late Pope Francis denounced the narrative that abortion benefits women as "false compassion," and emphasized instead that the deadly practice deepens women's grief and woundedness inflicted by a secular culture that devalues "God's gift of sexuality and the right to life of the unborn."

Though some university professors and board members supported her appointment, Bishop Rhoades was quickly supported by several fellow bishops, including Bishop Robert Barron, who described the university's appointment as "repugnant" to Notre Dame's identity and that Ostermann is not simply "pro-choice" but rather "a sharp critic of the pro-life position and those who advocate it" - "one who insinuates that the Catholic commitment to integral human development implies the support of abortion rights." Archbishop Samuel Aquila of Denver described the situation as a "most unfortunate appointment by Notre Dame that truly tarnishes Our Lady's University [and] what it means to be Catholic." And under the golden dome the fight goes on....
